He said, as the Convention had requested bim to offer some remarks on the University Question and the beginning of the session this afternoon, he thought be -could do so most satisfactorily by explaining the Resolutions which he was authorised to report from the Business Committee. Mi Scott occupied about half an hour, giving a brief statement of the history of this more-.ment, and then proceeded to about its necessity propriety and probable issue. He reserved many special points, as they would most likely arise in the course of the alternoon discussions. The Resolutions of the Business Committee chaving been read, they were ordered to be "taken up seriatim.

Resolution 1st .- Moved by John Terry, Esq , of Sharon; seconded by Thomas Hellcincl, E.q., of Barrie :

That this Convention reiterates the declarsation of opinion expressed in the Resolution of the Wesleyan Conference, in 1859, respecting the importance and propriety of combining religious oversight and Christian culture with Collegiate education; and believes that the interests of denominational Colleges will be permanently secured by voluntary effort and a proper distribution of such funds as are, or may be, set apart for Superior Education. Resolution 2nd .- Moved by Thomas

Nixon, Eq, of Newmarket; seconded by John Ward, Esq., of Cooksville:

That this Convention regards with satisfaction the appointment of the Parliamentary Committee of the last session, and that the complaints of the Wesleyan Conference and others were not only heard, but that a large amount of information was laid before the Committee, confirmatory of the allegations preferred against the authorities of Toronto University.

Resolution 3rd. - Moved by Robert Cooke Esq., of Newmarket; seconded by Rev. after, and with the ship perfoled the crew to a James Graham, of Markham:

That this convention is deeply impressed with the importance and duty of perseverence for the purpose of securing University reform; and that, therefore, it is solemnly obligatory on the part of all friends of denominational education to continue their efforts until the Mojesty, in his speech, soid :---University Endowment be administered on the principles of equal justice to all clusses of confides in our wisdom, and on you devolves

Speeches were made by Edward Stanley, Eugene Cassiday, Colonel Crockett and

Resolutions are unanimously adoptep, declaring the unalterable attachment of California to the Union; that there exists no power under the constitution for a State to secede; that California will cheerfully acquiesce in any honourable plan for the adjustment of existing difficulties, so as to secure the rights of all the States; that if one or more should effect a figal separation from the Union, California should and will, nevertheless, chag to the Union. California entirely repudiates the projeet of a Pacific Republic as visionary, mischerious, and impracticable; that the true attitude of the people of California at this tiras of trouble is that of fraternal kindness towards the people of all the States, and ber bonour and interest alike demand of her to do all je her power to brigg about barmeny and reunion among the people of the whole country. It is generally conceded that this impromptu Union demonstration was the largest mass meeting ever held to San Francisco, while the unanimous and enthusiastic endorsement of the resolutions surprised their friends,

Compost for Corn.

The Rev. II. II. Thompson, of Cranford Co., Pa., writes us as follows: In renewing my sobscription for the Genesie Farmer, permit me to give you the result of an experiment made the past summer chaning. (We Nby are authors who treat about Last spring I made a compost of the following logredients : the contents of my henhouse (which was the product of twenty five hens for one year), 17 bushels ; ashes, 17 bushels | ho is glways bebigd his Gine ... and 700lbs. of plaster. This was sufficient for nine seres. About a large spoonful was applied to each hill and covered with the corn In planting, I tell twelve rows across the field to which no compost was applied. After the corn was up, plaster was applied to the part that had been composted, and also to six of the rows that were left uncomposted at | the time of planting.

The beneficial effects of the compost and busband, that you have a great many ways o also of the plaster were very noticeable all being one, ed 17 bushels; the eix with spansteronly, 18 bushels, and six with compost and plaster both yielded 22 bushels. The roits were 28 rods long, and there were 217 rows in the field .-Taking these figures as our data, it would make us the produce of the compost and plaster, 206 bushels over what the field would have produced without them. Corn is worth trienty five cents a bushel here this fall ; hence we have $51.50 for an outlay of $3 for the plaster and about four days additional labor The other materials were produced on the farm and cost nothing.

The nine acres produced 957 bushels, which is considered a very good, crop in our two figures for decimals and the product is be ag." pounds and decimals of a pound of cheese fresh

Example. - Given 495 pounds of mil:-

The rule is founded on experience. Of course this green cheese must loose a great deal in euring, since both the casein constitute but .about eight per cent. of milk.

2ad. For accertaining the quantity of stalt for cheese .-- Multiply the number of pounds of milk by three-point off three places tfor decimals. Your answer is in pounds and decimals of a pound.

Example. - How much salt for the curd of 495 the milk ? 495X3=1 355 or one pound and 385-1000 of a pound. Now reduce these decimals to ounces, by multiplying by sixteen; -point off three decimals as before. Your answer is 385X16=6 160-1000 nunces, or 1 lb. 01-10 oz., is the quantity of salt required for the cheese of 495 lbs, milk.
